Hello, I am Hitaishi V,

I am a self driven researcher, passionate about finding novel solutions for complex problems in field of photonics and lasers. My high motivation towards the field lead to some research articles. I am seeking postdoc as a platform to achieve my research goals, building research communities and improving the institutes reputation are my motto.

Experience

I have a strong analytical skills and ideas of principles of FDTD (Finite-Difference Time-Domain) and FEM (Finite Element method) for simulations and to investigate the propagation of light with the waveguide designs. I have modeled and executed simulations on waveguide, resulting in the listed publications. I have mentored lab classes for the students to teach experiments mentioned in syllabus. I am skilled in many software and coding languages like Ansys Lumerical, COMSOL Multiphysics, Origin, Python, Rust, MATLAB etc. Eager to apply these skills to further explore exploration and research in the field of photonics and lasers.

I have been learning photonics based softwares like GDS Factory, Femwell and MEEP for better understanding and reliable open-source alternatives.
